ANNOUNCEMENT

“Recovery Strategies for Industrial Development in Native Prairie for the Northern Fescue Natural Subregion of Alberta” is now available on the Foothills restoration Forum (FRF) website, where you can also order a hard copy. This is the third document in a multi-year project to develop best practices handbooks to promote restoration outcomes for disturbances, linked to each Natural Subregion that supports native grasslands.

Recovery Strategies for the Northern Fescue supports the 2016 Alberta Environment and Parks document, “Strategies for Minimizing Disturbance in Native Grasslands within the Central Parkland and Northern Fescue Subregions”.

Improved reclamation practices are central to the management of cumulative impacts in native grasslands and the reduction of development footprint.
